Operation Unknown

Location: Idaho

Impact Report

Operational Date: 9/2023

Operational Summary

HARP was deployed to the state of Idaho to assist a monastery in locating a missing monk who had not returned from a late evening hike into the mountains. The team undertook an extensive search operation, covering over 400 acres on horseback, utilizing their specialized tracking expertise. Despite their efforts, initial attempts to locate the monk were unsuccessful. Even tracking dogs, brought in to aid the search, failed to find any trace of him.

In response to the challenging conditions and lack of progress, HARP deployed an advanced drone equipped with thermal imaging technology to detect human heat signatures. Unfortunately, this effort also yielded no results. Undeterred, HARP meticulously combed the lower lands, searching for any signs of ground disturbance that could indicate the monk's whereabouts.

As the search extended into early fall, the persistence of the team finally paid off. The monk was discovered under a sheet of ice on a small lake. This tragic conclusion underscored the dedication and thoroughness of HARP's efforts, highlighting their commitment to exhaustive search and rescue operations even in the face of difficult and adverse conditions.
